Alex Kargher is a litigation partner at Sinclair Braun Kargher. He has successfully litigated disputes in a variety of industries including the health care industry, media and entertainment, fiduciary services, food manufacturing, and real estate.

Those representations have covered myriad subject matters including representing beneficiaries and trustees in Trust & Estate disputes, businesses in all forms of contract and employment disputes—including significant trade secret and noncompete disputes, defamation and rights of publicity claims, copyright and trademark disputes, and antitrust claims.

Alex has been involved in numerous trials throughout his career. Recent trials include representing a large, institutional trustee in a trial over a $100 million surcharge and against third party creditor claims, obtaining a $4+ million judgment in favor of a PPE importer, and obtaining favorable agreements to develop affordable housing in connection with a large-scale entertainment development following a high-profile writ proceeding.

Prior to joining Sinclair Braun, Alex was a partner in Cozen O'Connor's nationally recognized litigation practice. He previously spent eight years at Glaser Weil, a premier full-service law firm helping clients win bet-the-company cases across many industries, including numerous high-profile contract and intellectual property disputes in the entertainment and media communities.

Outside of his practice, Alex enjoys spending time with his wife and three children, and working closely with Nefesh LA, where he is a founding member and sits on the Board of Directors.
